For nearly ten years, Axis Technical Group has been pioneering and refining how to improve document management and data extraction. The product development team leveraged Artificial Intelligence, Natural Language Processing, and Machine Learning to augment performance. Today, thousands of templates have been added to the company's library of Title documents. Breakthroughs have been achieved that streamlined and automated how this data can be captured, stored, and analyzed.

"This is a proud moment for Axis Smart Data Extraction to be recognized as an industry standard by the USPTO. Our customers' and partners' trust in Axis Technical Group made this achievement possible," said Michael Valdes, President, Axis Technical Group.
